International Yoga Day 2017: ERC project contributing to better understanding of yoga

On the International Yoga Day today, the European Union wishes to highlight a very particular research project which the European Research Council (ERC), a programme within the Scientific Excellence pillar of the EU's Research and Innovation Programme 'Horizon 2020', is supporting, aiming at a better understanding of the roots of yoga, through mapping and studying Sanskrit manuscripts and fieldwork.

The project will identify yoga's aims and benefits and show how they have adapted to changing historical contexts.

The project is led by Dr James Mallinson, Lecturer at London University and ERC grantee.
